Hello, I understand that you are recommending that Cineworld sell one of its cinemas in Cambridge.

I write to protest at this. Whilst I agree with the spirit of your findings that pricing may be affected by the lack of competition in some areas, I believe that you may be misunderstanding the nature of Cambridge and the contribution that the Arts Picturehouse makes to the unique culture of the city.

Due to the exceptional concentration of highly educated and diverse population, with a thirst for rich variation in leisure and cultural experience, Cambridge people need the Arts Picturehouse. Without it, I believe that the range of movies on offer to the population will be diluted to become solely mass market movies.

Many thanks for considering this.
